

MY FIRST WEEK IN SEVILLE

My first week studying abroad in Seville with the International College of Seville has been a whirlwind of excitement, exploration, and new experiences. It all started with our orientation meeting, where I met my fellow students from all over the US. Friday and Saturday morning, we walked around the city to get familiar with our new city. We strolled through the stunning Plaza de España, admired the grandeur of Seville's Cathedral, wandered under the architecture of Las Setas, and explored the heart of the city, el Centro. We also attended a Flamenco show! These walks have not only helped us get to know the city better but also allowed us to appreciate the beauty and rich history around every corner.

NEW CULTURE!

Adjusting to a new culture and schedule has taken some time, though. The lifestyle here is different from what we're used to—meal times are later, siestas are a thing, and the vibrant nightlife is part of the everyday rhythm.

It's been a fun challenge to adapt, and each day brings a deeper understanding of Spain's traditions and way of life.

The weekend brought even more adventure as we visited Itálica, an ancient Roman city. The next day, we traveled to Bolina. There, we indulged in a wine tasting, explored a museum, and finished the day relaxing at the beach.

I'm excited to see what adventures the coming weeks bring us!
Can't wait for our trip to Morocco!
