ANCIENT ROMAN CITY OF ITÁLICA

Founded in 206 BC, Itálica was one of Spain's first Roman settlements and birthplace of two emperors. Today, its mosaics, amphitheater, and archaeological remains offer a vivid glimpse into Roman life.

ALCÁZAR PALACE

Built by Castilian Christians over a Muslim fortress, Seville's Alcázar is a premier example of Mudéjar architecture. Renowned for its beauty, it remains the oldest European royal palace still in use.

THE CATHEDRAL

Completed in the 16th century on the site of the Great Mosque, Seville's Cathedral became the world's largest Gothic church. It houses magnificent architectural elements alongside impressive works of sacred art.
